DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's response of January 10, 2006 has been entered and the following Office Action applies.

Election/Restrictions

1. Claims 24, 27-30, 32-36, 38-40 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on March 29, 2005.
2. Applicant's election with traverse of Figures 3-5 in the reply filed on March 29, 2005 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that a structural characteristic is common to all of the Figs. This is not found persuasive because the inventions as shown in the different Figs. show different structural elements and are therefore patentably distinct.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

Specification

3. The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: the specification does not disclose that the body member is unitary.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. Claims 21-22, 25, 26, 31, and 37 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Willey.

The patent to Willey in reference to claims 21 and 37, shows a fishing rod holder having a unitary body member 10 having a base 14 flanked by a pair of substantially coplanar flanges 16, 18. Willey shows an extension 36 unitarily joined to and projecting beyond one the flanges as shown in Fig. 3. Willey shows the extension having an open-ended notch 42 for removably receiving an elongate article such as a fishing rod 74. Willey shows that the fishing rod is disabled from movement in each of two opposite directions such as side to side movement. Willey shows that the rod has unrestricted movement in a direction parallel to the axis of the extension when the lever 68 is depressed. Willey shows the flanges having at least one slot such as 76 in flange 18 and 20 in flange 16. The broadest reasonable interpretation is applied to the term since applicant has not defined slots in the specification. Willey shows clamping means 22, 28 removably accommodated in the slots. Willey shows the body member clamped atop a support in Figs. 1-3 with the extension projecting upwardly from one of the flanges in a direction away from the support. Willey shows the support 24 is arcuate and the body member has a concave base for confronting and seating on the support. In reference to claim 25

Art Unit: 3643

Willey shows a pair of clamp members 22, 28 coupled to the body with the space between the clamp members being sufficient to accommodate the support 24 between the clamp members. The clamp members can be interpreted to be in a substantially parallel spaced apart condition since the end faces of 22 and 28 are parallel. Applicant should define the invention more precisely to overcome this grounds of rejection. In reference to claim 26, Willey shows adjusting means as the head and threads on bolt 22 noting Fig. 1. In reference to claim 31, Willey shows means 22, 28 coupling the body member with clamping members 16, 18 and adjusting means as the threads on bolt 22 for rocking the clamp members relative to the body member and varying the space between the clamp members. The coupling means when loose are thought to rockably couple the clamp members to the body member.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claim 23 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Willey. The patent to Wiley shows a fishing rod holder as discussed above. Willey shows a U-shaped notch, but it would have been obvious to employ a V-shaped notch since the function is the same and no showing of unexpected results was made. Also, see In re Dailey et al., 149 USPQ 47 which states that changes in shape are obvious.

Conclusion

8. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The patents to Mukdaprakorn, King, Gutierrez, Hawkins, Diggs, Hoerrr, McBurney, Messinger, Cottrill, Guestinger, Bahr, Hadaway, Merckel, and Meachen show other fishing rod holders.
